

POLITICAL.

Notes on the Late Presidential Campaign.

It is likely that Lieut.-Gov. Halle, the Republican candidate, will contest the election of Gov. Russell in Massachusetts, not, it is said, because he questions the legality of Russell's title, but to set himself right before the people, and to show that had it not been for votes mistakenly cast for Wolcott Hamilton he would now be Governor-elect. All this comes out of the discovery that numerous votes were thrown out because the ballots were improperly marked. Returns from all Counties of the State, except Suffolk, show that over 19,000 votes cast were worthless under the Australian system. One-third of them were entirely blank—that is, with no mark whatever against a name for Governor, while the others were rendered inoperative by the voters placing a cross against the name of William H. Halle, also against that of Wolcott Hamilton, the Prohibition candidate, the latter's name being that of Halle on the ballot.

The peculiarity of the name, "Wolcott Hamilton," doubtless led thousands of voters to believe that when they marked first for Halle, and then for the name next following, Wolcott Hamilton, they were voting for the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, Roger Wolcott, who, in reality, was eight names lower down on the ballot under the appropriate head, "Lieutenant-Governor."

An estimate of the assumption that it was clearly the intention of the voter to mark for Halle and his associate on the ticket, Wolcott, and not for Wolcott Hamilton, gives Halle a plurality over Russell in those Counties of 10,000 votes.

The recent, as now given out, shows that Gov. Russell is elected with a plurality of 2,699. The plurality of Roger Wolcott, Republican, for Lieutenant-Governor, over James B. Carroll, Democrat, is 9,953. William M. Olin, Republican, has a plurality of 17,808 over Charles S. Hamilton, Democrat, for Secretary of State. George A. Marden, Republican, as State Treasurer, has a plurality over James S. Grinnell, Democrat, of 23,946.

A bill was introduced into the Alabama Legislature last week providing that all persons whose State and County taxes, as assessed, do not amount to $5, shall not be required to pay the same if it be shown that such person failed to vote at the August and November elections of the previous year.

There are not 30 per cent. of the negro voters who pay taxes exceeding $5 a year. At the lowest calculation 50 per cent. of the negro voters would take advantage of the opportunity of saving $5. Many think the bill will become a law.

The opponents of the anti-tion bill are determined this measure shall not become a law, and a strong force has been organized to defeat it. Very influential opposition to this proposed legislation exists in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, New Orleans, and other large cities, and it is understood that delegates from each of these places will come to Washington to exert their influence in preventing the passage of the bill. The fight will be almost entirely confined to the Senate and those who led the opposition last session—Senators White of Louisiana, Wolcott of Colorado, and Hisscock of New York—will probably take the foremost steps to kill it. The tactics to be pursued, it is stated, will be the same as those adopted last session. An attempt will be made to talk the measure to death, and it is reported that long speeches with this end in view have already been prepared. It is said that Vice-President Morton will not consent to the adoption of a cloture rule, and unless this is done there seems to be no method of closing the debate and bringing the bill to a vote.

Mrs. Lease, of Kansas, has announced her candidacy for the Senate of that State. In this connection, she says: "I believe that the office should seek the women as well as the man, and I will not allow any man to scramble for the place. In the sense that I will log-roll with the politicians I am not a candidate. I intend to set the men an example. The people know whether they want me or not, and if they want me they can probably get me; but I shall not make a canvass for the office. I will qualify that statement, however, with the proviso, that I believe in the suffrage solely because I am a woman. If they try to fight me on that ground I shall have to fight back as a matter of principle."

"I have consulted good Constitutional lawyers, and know that I am eligible for the office, and if the legislators are inclined to send me to Washington I will go. I have received a very large number of highly complimentary letters from prominent men, and I am not running after office. The strangest part of this is that of all the congratulatory letters I have received not one of them is from a woman. Still, I have done more for the women in the last year than all the other women reformers have done in 40 years. I am not a woman suffragist agitator, but people who know me know where I stand on that question."

The scheme to divide Kansas and make a new Commonwealth is gaining adherents every day. The plans have been made for a fight before Congress and the State Legislature this Winter. The original movers figured on three Congressmen, but it appears now that in the proposed new State there are but 223,000 people, which would allow one man more than two in any event. If the rumors that several prominent Texans and two Colorado millionaires are in the deal prove true the population will be increased many thousands. Mr. Man's Land, to which Texas claims a title, and which borders western Kansas on the south, will be added to the new State. It is a strip of country 20 miles wide by 175 long. It is also claimed that Senator Weaver is in favor of the scheme, Colorado would be willing to cut off a 50-mile strip on the east side. Railroad Commissioner A. B. Green, an enthusiastic advocate of the project, said the other day:

"We are going to divide Kansas. The people want to do it, especially in the western part. The State is too large. There is a feeling of discontent among the people of the western part that they are raising taxes to support State institutions in the eastern half from which they get no benefit. The only State institution in the western half is the Soldiers' Home at Dodge City, with some 250 inmates."

Clerk Herr, of the House of Representatives, has compiled a list of the members of the next House so far as the returns have been received from reliable sources. He finds that there will be 218 Democrats, 128 Republicans, and eight Populists in the body, with the State of Rhode Island yet to be heard from. The returns were in most instances collected from those made to the Secretaries of State of the various States. As the table stands at present the Democrats have a majority of 82.

By the full returns from California it appears that the Third Party will hold the balance in the State Legislature. The Democrats lack five votes of having a majority, and the Republicans seven seats. At the coming session a successor to the present Senator Felton will be elected, and as neither of the two parties have a majority, the seven votes which the Third Party has, will be of great assistance to either the Democrats or Republicans. To add to this the seven Independents have not yet declared their Senatorial choice, and at present the matter is very much in doubt.

Senator Kyle, the Populist of South Dakota, says that he will act with the Democrats on the tariff question, and that he will vote for any judicious measure that will be a step in the direction of tariff reform.

The State Board of Canvassers last week completed the two days' hearing of the contested election of Gen. E. W. Morse, the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Seventh (black) South Carolina District, by George Murray, the negro Republican. The certificate of election was given to Murray by 41 votes only, the total being, Morse, 41,955; Murray, 41,955. The face of the returns as sent up by the County Boards gave Murray little more than 2,500 votes. Over 1,700 of Murray's votes, thrown out as illegal on account of improper ballots, given out to the negroes as proper ballots by the Democrats, were counted in. Gen. Morse will carry the fight into Congress.

In all probabilities there will be a bitter struggle for the Governorship of Alabama. It was first supposed that Kolb would attempt to be sworn in on inauguration day—next Thursday. It is now understood that he has abandoned this idea. The principal dependence of Kolb is upon legislation. Alabama has no law providing for a contest over the election of State officers. Such a bill has already been introduced in the House. Upon its passage depends Kolb's chance. It was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, and the Kolbites express confidence in its passage. "Kolb's charges of fraud are ridiculous," said the present Governor. "They have absolutely no foundation, and there is not one of them which has not been absolutely disproved. The record of the man in private and political matters throws discredit upon any charge he may make, and the Supreme Court has passed adversely upon his business integrity. There is no doubt but that I was honestly elected. If I thought for a moment that I was not elected I would not hold office. I did not want re-election. I was forced into the fight. I would have resigned after the present session of the Legislature had not this contest arisen. When Kolb started in to throw me out, I made up my mind to stay and I am going to stay."

At the closing meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association, held at Champaign, Ill., the free and unlimited control of silver was demanded, and an increased circulating medium. They also recommended the establishment of a national bank in lieu of the present method of perpetuating national banks; that all dealings in futures of agricultural and mechanical productions and the adulteration of foods and medicines be prohibited by Congress. They favor the election of United States Senators by the people, and demanded a graduated tax on incomes.

By the Democrats it is claimed that Ohio should have gone Democratic by a small majority. The complete returns show that Lorenzo D. Vickers, the Republican Elector for the Eleventh District, is defeated by James F. Seward, whose name appears first on the list of Democratic Electors. He received 40,115 votes, and Vickers received only 40,239. It is claimed that many who thought that they were voting the straight Democratic ticket placed the cross by Seward's name, whereas they were only voting the Elector. The abstracts of five Counties have been sent back for correction, and it is thought that this will overthrow two Republican Electors, who have very slight margins.

Matters are very close in the Kansas State Legislature. There are 40 Senators and 125 members, and it stands politically as follows: Republicans, 77; Populists, 82; Democrats, 4; Independent Republican, 1; the tie between Republican and Populist, 1. The tie will be settled by lot by the six State officers who compose the State Canvassing Board, five of whom are Republicans. If the Populists should get the seat it will give them 83 votes on joint ballot, just enough to elect a Senator. If the Republicans win it will give them 73 votes, five short of a majority, and to elect a Senator they would have to have the four Democrats and one Independent Republican.

This is the tie-contest that there will be no contests in either branch of the Legislature. If the Republicans organize the House, as now seems likely, they could throw out five or more Populists before the Senator is elected, seat Republicans and insure the election of a Republican Senator. But if they should do this, the Populist Senators would unsettle as many Republican Senators, who slipped through with a bare majority. Never in the history of the State has a Legislature been so close on joint ballot, or has the situation been so interesting to the politicians of all parties.

The official count of the vote of Connecticut, as determined by the State Board of Canvassers, shows that Cleveland, for President, received the largest vote ever cast for a candidate in the State. The total vote of the State for President was 184,855, and Cleveland's plurality is 5,570. Total for Governor is 164,473. L. B. Morris, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has a majority of 895, and a plurality over Lieut.-Gov. Merwin, the Republican candidate, 6,042.

Official returns have been received from all North Dakota Counties except six. The figures on those heard from give Weaver 45,000 votes, 550 plurality. Private advices from the Counties not yet officially reported show the Harrison electors to have a plurality of 15.

In Bottineau County Michaels is contesting Harrison's election to the Legislature, claiming that the 120 Indians in that district had no right to vote. There is a similar contest in Emmons County. If it be decided that the Indians have a right to vote, the electoral vote of the State will go for Harrison, otherwise it will go for Weaver.

Official returns from Illinois show: Harrison, 390,285; Cleveland, 425,251, a plurality for the latter of 36,966; Fifer, 402,629; Altgeld, 425,437, a plurality for Altgeld of 22,778. It will be observed that both Harrison and Fifer came to Cook County ahead of their opponents. The total vote for President was 869,250, an increase of 185,000 over 1888. Weaver and Bidwell, getting 24,590 to Bidwell's 20,685. In 1888 Gen. Fisk, the Prohibitionist, had 21,635 votes in Illinois. Evidently the Prohibition party is the weaker in this State.

The following is the official vote of Virginia for President: Cleveland, 163,977; Harrison, 113,255; Weaver, 12,274, and Bidwell, 2,736. Cleveland's majority over all, 55,510. The official vote of Kentucky is: Cleveland, 175,424; Harrison, 135,420; Weaver, 23,593, and Bidwell, 6,355. Total, 340,732. Cleveland's plurality, 40,004. In 1888 Cleveland received 185,000 votes and Harrison 155,134. The total vote in 1888 was 340,130.

The following is New York's official vote: Cleveland electors, headed by Wm. Steiway, 175,267; Harrison electors, headed by Henry W. Sawyer, 135,997; Weaver electors, headed by Isaac Edwin Dean, received 2,395. Wing electors, headed by Daniel de Leon, received 5,945. Bidwell electors, headed by Horace Waters, received 2,439.

The Chinese Restriction Act. It would seem that the latest Chinese restriction act is a dead letter. The law was passed on May 5 last, and required that within one year from that time all Chinese laborers within the United States should take out registration papers before the Collector of Internal Revenue, and that the respective districts and foreign photographs of themselves for identification. On the 7th of July the Internal Revenue Department issued its forms of application for registry to all the officers having Chinese laborers in their districts, and directed warnings in Chinese throughout all the Chinese quarters.

Up to Nov. 27 only five Chinamen in the whole country had registered, and there were in Oregon. According to Census figures there are over 107,000 Chinese in the country, although it is believed that these figures fall far short of the truth. The only penalty for failure to comply with the law is deposit his name back to China. At a very moderate estimate it would cost the Government $10,750,000 to transport them all. It is the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General to carry out this program. There is $20,000 set aside for the purpose. The additional sum must be appropriated by the next Congress if the law is to be carried out by the 5th of May, for it is evident that the Chinese residents of the United States do not intend to comply with its provisions.

It will be the Largest Telescope. Warner & Swasey, of Cleveland, the designers and builders of the famous 36-inch Lick telescope and the 26-inch telescope for the new Naval Observatory at Washington, will make the 46-inch Yerkes telescope for the University of Chicago. The Lick telescope is now the largest in the world, but the new instrument, when completed, exceed it in power by 25 per cent. The tube of the great telescope will be 75 feet long and will weigh about six tons, and the instrument complete not less than 60 tons. It is estimated that the telescope will be completed in one year.

A Georgia Exodus. A great and sudden exodus of the white settlers of northwestern Georgia to Texas is now in progress. The emigrants are in some instances old people, but most of them are young and middle-aged farmers with their families. These are moving because for the last three or four years their crops have been very bad, and they could not meet their obligations. They have had to mortgage what little they had as security to landlords and merchants who furnished them with supplies. From many every thing has been taken away; so they are all going to Texas to better their condition.

AN ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

Dr. Nansen, a Norwegian Explorer, will Penetrate into and Beyond the North Pole.

The scientific world is interested in a pole explorer besides Lieut. Peary, and his name is Dr. Fridtjof Nansen. He is the sturdy Norwegian who made a journey across the island of Greenland in the ice cap in 1888, and he is now about to start on a novel expedition to pass the pole and traverse the unknown polar regions. Dr. Nansen said of his expedition in an address before the London Royal Geographical Society, that: "With a party of 12 chosen men I shall leave Norway early in June next and sail direct to Nova Zembla, the northernmost point of the European continent, and from there to the Kara Sea, probably early in July. Striking the Siberian coast and passing Cape Tscheljuski, the most northerly point of the Old World, I shall pass on so far as the mouth of the River Lena. Leaving the coast I shall start in a northerly direction along the western coast of the island of Kotelnoi, the most westerly of the Liakow, or New Siberian Group, and shall continue in this direction until the pack ice renders further navigation impossible. We shall do our best to force the ship through the ice, but we shall at last be driven to a point where we must stop. The ice will probably bring us to September, and we shall in this way get to some distance north of the New Siberian Islands. When navigation becomes no longer possible, I shall have nothing left but to ram the ship into the ice as far as possible and stick there. Then we shall have to be contented for the time with a policy of masterly inactivity. We shall be continually moving in a northerly direction. Assisted by nature, instead of fighting against her, we expect to be taken by the drifting of the ice-floes right across the Polar region down into the East Greenland Sea, between Spitzbergen and Greenland, having in this way reached and passed the Pole."

"We take with us provisions for five years. Entirely depending upon the current, we shall be drifted first to one side and then to the other, but always in a northerly direction, until, as I have already said, we emerge into the Greenland Sea, whence we shall return to Norway."

Hawaii and the United States.

At a recent meeting of the Cabinet of Hawaii was asked a series of questions by the native members of the Cabinet as to whether the Cabinet intended to negotiate a new reciprocity treaty with the United States; whether there was any intention of making a disposition of Pearl Harbor by the United States; and if it was proposed to send an envoy to Washington in the negotiation of any new treaty. Their questions were answered by Minister Wilcox, who said it was the desire of the Cabinet to establish closer relations with the United States, and that while no treaty or draft of a treaty has yet been under consideration by the new Cabinet, in negotiation of any treaty, should the Government of the United States request the Hawaiian Cabinet would favor granting to the United States the exclusive right to enter the harbor of Pearl River, and the right to establish a naval station, a coaling and repair station for the use of vessels of the United States.

On the same day the Cabinet outlined their policy, which would be to maintain the autonomy and independence of the Kingdom; to promote closer commercial relations with the United States; to assist in the passage of the laws that will tend to relieve the present need of labor to carry on successfully the agricultural interests of the Kingdom; to administer the Government economically, and to promote the agriculture and other interests with such legislation and pecuniary assistance as possible.

Extremism of the Daltons.

"I was in Coffeyville, Kan., the other day," said Traveling Salesman Will Prentiss, in Washington, the other day, "and I found the sensational fight with the Dalton gang still occupying the minds of the people to the exclusion of pretty much everything else."

"The hero of that fight, who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the head, has lost a good deal of the credit due him on account of an error in sending out his name. The wires made out that the name of the remarkable manipulator of a Winchester was John Speer, or the name of the man on occasion was John Speer, or the name of the man who shot three of the outlaws, and hit each of them in the